

FORMER NORWICH MAN AT WESTERLY

Lewis E. Stanton, of Hartford, Tells D. A. R. Chapter About Stanton Homestead—Campfire Girls on North Stonington Outing—The George W. Moore Company Buys Additional Land—Red Men's Pow Wow Tonight.

Mrs. Joseph L. Peacock of Westerly was elected first vice president of the annual meeting of the Rhode Island branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, held Wednesday in the Broadway Baptist church, Olneyville.

Miss Mary A. Greene of Providence was chosen honorary president, Mrs. H. Howard Pepper of Providence, president, and Mrs. J. V. Osterhout and Miss Elizabeth Howland of Providence, honorary vice presidents. Miss Emma A. Tiffany of Pawtucket was elected recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Rector of Providence corresponding secretary, and Mrs. C. F. Wilcox of Providence, treasurer and superintendent of baby bands. Eight vice presidents were elected. Miss Mary C. Durfee, Mrs. W. H. F. Fainne and Miss A. M. Barrows of Providence were elected honorary directors, and a board of directors composed of 42 ladies were chosen. Mrs. Peacock is the only representative from Westerly on the official board, and the only active vice president.

A portion of the morning session was devoted to business and included the reading of reports of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. M. Wadsworth, and treasurer, Mrs. Lucy W. Wilcox. Miss Harriet Bennett of Haverhill, Mass., told of the interesting young women who take in foreign missionary work. Miss Linnie Holbrook of Tura, Assam, told of the work being done in the schools and among the hills of Assam. The morning session concluded with a memorial service for the missionaries who died during the year.

Miss Holbrook continued her address on the mission school work in the far east. She was followed by Miss May A. Greene of Providence, who spoke on the work being accomplished by the missionary society in Rhode Island. Rev. W. Bushnell, recently returned from Monimbel, Burma, addressed the group on the mission work in Burma, gave an address upon the missionary work of that country. Then followed the election of officers.

Loyal Pride of New England lodge, I. O. O. F. M. U. of Westerly will participate in the parade and the initiatory exercises in the infirmary hall, Providence, when a class of 150 will be initiated. The demonstration will be held Saturday evening, and delegates from all sections of Rhode Island and from Attleboro and Fall River, Mass., will participate. Mayor Gainer and visiting officials will review the parade from the steps of the city hall. The Westerly lodge has been assigned to a place in the second division of the parade.

At the hall addresses will be made by Mayor Gainer, Deputy Grand Master George H. Nuttal and P. P. G. M. Thomas J. Ashton of Fall River. Grand officers from Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania will be present. Following the speaking Rud of Hope lodge will exemplify the degree work on the candidates.

The Westerly Campfire Girls had an outing Thursday, going to North Stonington and spending the day at and in the vicinity of the Daisy farm, the home of Mrs. F. P. Mearns. The party numbered 26 and included members of Ninigret group, of which Miss Sally E. Coy is guardian; Misquamicut group, Mrs. Herbert Smith, guardian, and Owanee group, Miss Mary Starr, guardian. The girls practiced some of the work of the organization in the woods and prepared their own dinner, which comprised tomato soup, baked potatoes, bacon and bread and butter, and were spring water. The trip to and from North Stonington was made on electric cars, but the girls enjoyed a substantial hike away from the highways and byways and were interested in nature study as explained by the guardians.

The George W. Moore company, manufacturers of elastic fabrics and owner of the property formerly owned by the Western Narrow Fabric company, fronting on Beach street, has just purchased adjoining property which includes the holding of the Moore company from two to ten acres of land. This property was formerly owned by the Westerly Development company and was sold to George W. Moore by Frank W. Cox Thursday afternoon. The newly acquired property will not only give opportunity for development of the industry, but will also give the company opportunity to erect dwelling houses for employees. It is a solution of the problem of a scarcity of tenements in so far as it affects this company. The Moore company came to Westerly without any blare of trumpets and has been doing a successful and evidently satisfactory business, which will be further increased by the added real estate, which will soon be improved.

Former United States District Attorney Louis E. Stanton of Hartford, who attended school in Norwich, in 1846, delivered a very entertaining and instructive address at the meeting of the Phoebe Greene Ward chapter, D. A. R., in Mechanics hall, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Stanton's subject was The Adam Stanton House in Clinton, Conn. Adam Stanton was a fifth lineal descendant of Thomas Stanton of Westerly, and after a brief reference to the original owner of the house Mr. Stanton gave a pleasing description of the same, and presented photographs of the same to Phoebe Greene Ward chapter. Upon request, Mr. Stanton presented a copy of his historical address to the Westerly Library and Memorial association for preservation.

Local Laconics.

The town clerk had issued five dog kennel licenses Thursday.

There is no change in the strike situation of the stone masons and laborers of Westerly.

Henry C. Smalley of New Haven was in Westerly Thursday, the guest of Judge Herbert W. Rathbun.

Seventy-five books dealing with the timely subject of gardening have been grouped on the shelves of the Westerly public library for the convenience of the public.

Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna has ordered the removal of all gambling devices in Pawcatuck stores.

Rev. Samuel H. Davis officiated at the funeral of Alfred Collins at his home in Charlestown Thursday morning. Burial was at River Bend.

An act which exempts the Masons, Odd Fellows and Elks from making report to the insurance commissioner has been passed by the Rhode Island general assembly.

William Segar and daughter Helen will leave Westerly for New York today and sail Saturday for Panama. Before returning they will make a trip to South America.

Senator Louis W. Arnold of Westerly attended a meeting of the board of supply and control Thursday when bids were opened for the supply of coal to state institutions.

The members of the Westerly town council met Thursday evening and canvassed the voting list to determine those qualified to vote at the coming special financial town meeting.

The house has passed an act regulating the practice of osteopathy in Rhode Island and provides for the registration of osteopaths by a commission appointed by the state board of health.

Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, left Westerly for New Jersey Thursday, preparatory to devoting two months service to the work of the American Sabbath Tract society.

Indians from all sections of the Providence Plantations will come to Westerly tonight to participate in the pow-wow of Misquamicut tribe of Red Men. There will be a parade before entering the big wigwam.

The Westerly Veteran Firemen's association has accepted the invitation of Neptune Hose company of Stonington to participate in the parade on Firemen's day, Aug. 3. The Alerts of Westerly will be the guests of Pioneer Hook and Ladder company.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Caleb Tillinghast.

Danielson, April 2.—Mrs. Arderia Ann Tillinghast died at her home on Reynolds street Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Tillinghast fell a few weeks ago and broke her hip. She was born Jan. 3, 1832 at the Wood homestead two miles east of Danielson and excepting for a few years during which she has been engaged in the millinery business in Central Village, she spent the greater part of her life at the Wood homestead. She came to Danielson in 1903. The deceased was the widow of Caleb Tillinghast, leaves one son, L. M. Linwood of Boston and two brothers, Everett O. Wood of Danielson and LeRoy Wood of New York.

Civic Federation Meeting.

The members of the Civic Federation are to meet with Mrs. A. H. Farmington this (Friday) afternoon.
